OBJECT: Personal data protection privacy policy

(art. 13 and 14 EU Regulation 679/2016)

By this letter Giasco S.r.l. (the Company in the following text) wants to inform you about the treatment of your personal data and information, common or particular or judicial ones.

1) Type of treated personal data and collection method

The Company will be allowed to treat common and/or particular personal datas, directly collected from you or from other people that you indicated, like public databases, for example:

A. common data: personal, addresses, codes assigned by third parties, etc;

B. particular data: regarding racial or ethnic origin, public opinions, religious or philosophical convictions, or union membership, health data.

2) Datas regarding the treatment Holder

The treatment Holder – that is the subject who decides purposes and methods of the treatment of data to the previous paragraph – is Giasco S.r.l., located in Chiampo, Via Zaupa, n. 50, telephone +39 0444 624477, e-mail privacy@giasco.com

3) Treatment finality

Collection and treatment of personal data are made:

A. for the establishment, managing, execution and cessation of the contractual relationship;

B. to accomplish the obligations to exercise the law rights;

C. for the processing and conservation of accountant and invoicing documentation;

D. for marketing purposes, like sending commercial/promotional communications, through automated methods of contact, email and traditional post, regarding products/services of the Company.

4) Treatment methods

Your data are collected and registered in a lawful manner and by correctness, in compliance with art. 5 and 6 of Regulation, for the pursuit of the above indicated purposes and in respect of fundamental principles established by the applicable legislation. The treatment of personal data will take place by manual, electronic and telematics tools, but always under technical and organizational measures to guarantee safety and confidentiality, mainly to reduce destruction and loose risks, also accidental, of data, unauthorized access, or not allowed or non-compliant to collection purpose treatment.

5) Legal bases of the treatment

With reference to the point 3) purposes the legal base of treatment is:

– for point 3.A the contract execution the interested is part of or the execution of pre-contractual measures adopted on the same person request;

– for point 3.B the legitimate interest;

– for points 3.B and 3.C also the compliance with a legal obligation the Holder is subjected to;

– for point 3.D the consent of the interested party.

6) Categories of recipients of personal datas

The personal data, by the limits and with the above indicated purposes, can be communicated or become aware and consequently be treated by:

1. Company employees expressly charged;
2. External Managers of the Company, their employees and collaborators in quality of charged or external Managers, like consultants and/or services suppliers of the Company identified by written by giving them specific written instructions. The list is available for consultation in the Holder head office;
3. Authorities and public bodies for the fulfillment of a legal obligation;
4. Business organizations that the Company adheres to;
5. Banks for fees payments.

7) Data retention period

Your personal data will be treated for the whole duration of the contractual relationship and also later for maximum ten (10) years from the cessation of the same relationship.
In every case, the treatment Holder, with the aim to comply with specific legal obligations, can keep its data for a further time, by providing to their cancellation when fulfilled this additional purpose.
Concerning marketing purposes, the data are retained until the withdrawal of consent and in every case not later than twenty-four (24) months.

8) Data transmission abroad

The Treatment Holder does not transfer personal data abroad.

When necessary, Personal Data can be transferred abroad in extra-UE countries where the level of data protection is considered adequate from the European Commission as per art. 45 GDPR or with previous signing of Standard Contractual Clauses adopted/approved from the European Commission as per art. 46, 2, let. C) and d) with the reference supplier or with previous adoption of other guaranties as per art. 46 and 47 of GDPR.

9) Interested part rights

Concerning the same personal data, rights of the interested part are:

1. Access: by obtaining evidence of the purposes pursued from the treatment Holder, of the categories of involved data, of the recipients they can be communicated to, of the applicant conservation period, of the existence of automated decision-making processes;
2. To obtain correction and cancellation of personal data;
3. To ask the treatment limitation;
4. To oppose to the treatment;
5. The portability of electronic data subjected to automated treatments, by receiving data in a structured format, of common use and readable from automatic device, also to transfer these data to another Holder, without any obstruction, in every case when this is necessary according to the law;
6. To withdraw the consent for marketing purposes and to oppose to the treatment of data treated for the same purposes. The interested part can prefer being contacted for the above purpose exclusively through traditional ways to express his opposition only in case of automated communications.
7. To submit a complaint to the supervisor authority (Privacy Guarantor).

To assert your rights please send a written request by indicating in the object "Privacy –exercise of theinterested part rights", to the following e-mail address: privacy@giasco.com

10) Automated decision-making processes

It is excluded every automated process, profiling included.

11) Mandatory or optional nature of data provision and consequences of an eventual provision refusal.

Data provision refers to the purposes of points 3.A, 3.B and 3.C and it is mandatory because the treatment of data is necessary to achieve the same purposes. Therefore the eventual refusal to supply them in worth or in part can cause the impossibility for the Company to execute the contract or to perform correctly all the related formalities, as well as correctly fulfill obligations imposed on it.

Concerning the purposes on point 3.D the consent is optional and revocable in every moment.

The Treatment Holder
Giasco S.r.l.

The undersigned ..... declares that has read the provided information regarding the treatment of personal data made by the Holder for the purposes as per point 3.

Date _____ Signature _____

The undersigned, ...,

– as per the forecast of point 3.D (data usage for marketing purposes)

☐ consent ☐ deny the consent

Date _____ Signature _____